

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MEMO TO CITY EDITORS

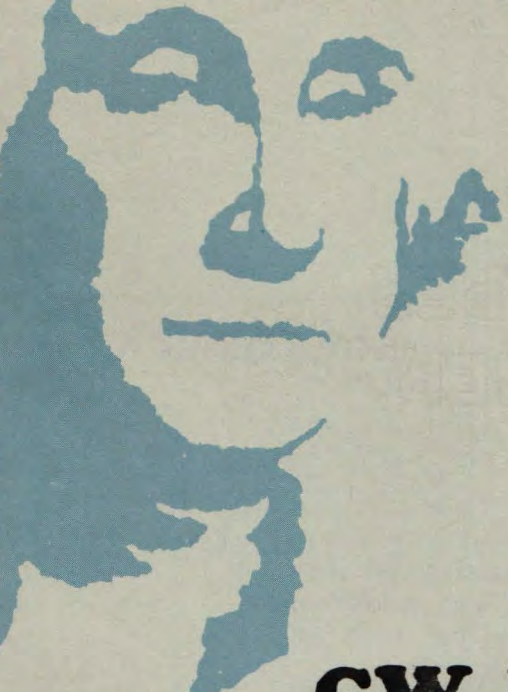

RE: D.C. AREA COUNSELORS LUNCHEON AT GW

Washington-area secondary school counselors recently met at a luncheon at George Washington University in the Kaiser Room of the GW University Club. The program included a review of GW's admissions standards, financial aid programs and GW's Equal Opportunity Program for District of Columbia students.

Attached are photos of several of the counselors who attended. Cutlines are included. For information, call George Stoner at 676-6051.

June 2, 1982

Robert Bové
676-6460 (Office)
265-1316 (Evenings)

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

June 7, 1982

CONTACT: Robert Bove
(202) 676-6460

GW Experts on the News

ISSUE: Economic summit: what it can and can not accomplish

EXPERT: James R. Barth, Ph.D., professor of economics, has appeared regularly before congressional committees and publishes often on general economic issues.

"Although it is unlikely that major economic policy changes will come from the summit meeting, it is a chance to reduce the widespread uncertainty each of the participants has concerning the others' policy directions. In this age of instant communication between nations, it is still necessary that leaders meet face to face. The way things are said is just as important as what is said. By meeting and talking the various heads of state are able to make it clear how they intend to improve economic conditions--and demonstrate their resolve to each other--over such issues as the U.S. budget impasse, high interest rates and East-West trade and credit relations."

Contact Barth at 676-7579 or 823-2025.

ISSUE: Canadian/American trade problems

EXPERT: Oli Havrylyshyn, Ph.D., associate professor of economics, an expert in problems with developing nations and Canadian/American economic relations, has lived and studied in Canada.

"Canada--and not the U.S.--is in a better position to supply mass transit equipment to American cities because it has been building it longer, not because the Canadians have been out-bidding U.S. companies. International export trade regulations regarding subsidized industries might be lifted in this case."

Contact Havrylyshyn at 676-7196 or 622-1304.

ISSUE: Summer travel industry forecast

EXPERT: John Hunt, Ph.D., director of GW's travel and tourism program and professor of human kinetics and leisure studies, was a member of the U.S. Senate National Tourism Policy Study and has written widely on national and international travel and tourism.

"Although many travel leaders are guardedly optimistic about domestic travel this summer, I believe the recession will continue to have a dampening effect on the industry, particularly in the early summer. However, late summer may witness an increase in travel as Americans receive some added disposable income from the July tax cut. While the U.S. is still one of the most sought-after destinations for visitors from abroad, the strengthening U.S. dollar, relative to other currencies, makes the U.S. more expensive than it has been in the last couple of years."

Contact Hunt at 676-7071 or 338-8291.

ISSUE: Irresponsible parenting at root of problem child's behavior

EXPERT: Margaret McIntyre, A.P.C., professor of education, specializes in child development and parents' role in early childhood education.

"The causes of anti-social teenage behavior can usually be traced to irresponsible childhood parenting. Parents have to re-assume responsibility over their children and limit the child's behavior--not so that they're in a prison--but at a level commensurate with their developmental level. Children need discipline and control. It's very frightening to them, when they know their parents aren't in control because children see this as an uncaring attitude."

Contact McIntyre at 676-6168.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: JUNE 8, 1982

CONTACT: ROBERT BOVÉ
676-6460 (Office)
265-1316 (Evenings)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GW UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR RANKED NUMBER ONE

PUBLIC POLICY ANALYSIS CONTRIBUTOR

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- George Washington University Professor Amitai Etzioni has been ranked as the number one contributor to public policy analysis by Policy Studies Journal (Vol. 10, No. 3, March 1982, pp. 442-47.) during the years 1969-80. The journal's study was based on the number of times the work of an author was cited in social sciences literature. Etzioni lead with 2,770 citations. The number two contributor had 1,903 citations.

Etzioni joined the GW faculty in July, 1980, after serving in the Carter White House as senior adviser in the Executive Office of the President. The author or editor of more than 15 books, he has written on topics ranging from the next technological revolution to the domestic and international implications of the space race. His writings have been published in several languages.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: JUNE 9, 1982

CONTACT: ROBERT BOVÉ
676-6460 (Office)
265-1316 (Evenings)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

TAKOMA PARK RESIDENT HONORED WITH U.S. LAW WEEK

AWARD AT GW COMMENCEMENT

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Takoma Park resident Rolf Rudolf von Oppenfeld was honored with the United States Law Week Award at the recent commencement of the George Washington University National Law Center. von Oppenfeld, a graduate of American University (B.S., 1978) and Lawrence University (B.A., 1978), received his Juris Doctor degree at the commencement.

The United States Law Week Award is given annually to an outstanding senior law student.

He is the the son of Horst and Judith von Oppenfeld of Lee Avenue.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: JUNE 9, 1982

CONTACT: ROBERT BOVÉ
(202) 676-6460 (Office)
(202) 265-1316 (Evenings)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HATTIESBURG RESIDENT HONORED AT GW LAW COMMENCEMENT

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Hattiesburg resident Michael Brian Ginsberg was honored at the recent commencement of the George Washington University National Law Center with the Michael Dillon Cooley Memorial Award. This award is given to the graduating class member who has been most successful in maintaining compassion, vitality, and humanity during law school.

Michael Cooley would have been a member of the class of 1981. He died May 21, 1980, the victim of a robbery. The Cooley award was created to serve future graduates as a continuing reminder of Michael Cooley's exemplary personal qualities.

Ginsberg, a graduate of the University of Texas (B.A., 1978), received his Juris Doctor degree at the commencement. He is the son of Herbert and Lou Ginsberg of Adeline Street.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: JUNE 10, 1982

CONTACT: ROBERT BOVÉ
676-6460 (Office)
265-1316 (Evenings)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

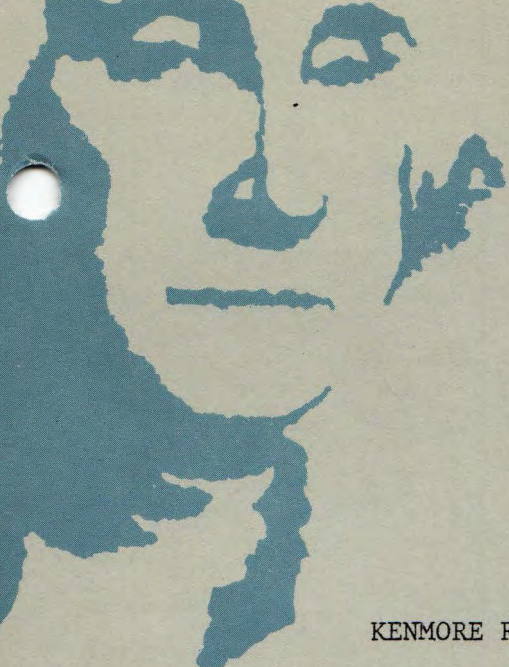

HAVE A HEART: GW ALUMNI COLLEGE CONFERENCE AT AIRLIE

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Have a Heart" is the theme of this year's George Washington University Alumni College, an intensive three-and-a-half-day look at both the recent technological developments in health care and the ethical questions raised by the use of the new technology. Faculty, alumni, students and friends of GW will meet at Airlie Conference Center, near Warrenton, Virginia, June 23-27. The public is invited.

Topics include health care and human moral experience, truth telling in the health care setting, and birth and death in the hospital. Conference participants will also explore the variety of leisure activities available at Airlie.

Lecturing faculty members include Charles S. Tidball, Ph.D., M.D., Henry D. Fry professor of physiology; M. Elizabeth Tidball, Ph.D., professor of physiology; and Harry E. Yeide Jr., Ph.D., professor of religion.

For information on the conference, sponsored by the GW General Alumni Association, call Michael Bowers at 676-6435.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: JUNE 11, 1982

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
(202) 676-6460 (Office)
(202) 234-3453 (Evening)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

KENMORE RESIDENT RECEIVES DEGREE, HONORS AT GEORGE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Jeffrey J. Grieco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Grieco of Thorncliff Road, Kenmore, N.Y., received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in International Affairs from George Washington University in commencement exercises on Sunday, May 9. He was a 1978 graduate of Kenmore West Senior High School where he was junior and senior class president. Grieco was awarded special honors from George Washington for his senior thesis on "The Decision-Making Process Relative to the American Use of the Atom Bomb Against Japan." He was also on the Dean's List and a member of the World Affairs Society. He spent his sophomore year abroad studying in Paris, France. He plans to work in Washington, D.C., for the next year and then expects to attend law school.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: June 18, 1982

CONTACT: DIANE H. RUSH
676-6464

ROBERT BOVÉ
676-6463

GW Experts on the News

ISSUE: U.S. losing leadership role in space

EXPERT: Dr. John M. Logsdon, director of GW's Graduate Program in Science, Technology and Public Policy, has been appointed to the National Air and Space Museum Chair in Space History where he will complete a book on space policy. He served as a consultant on the recently released Congressional Office of Technology Assessment report on U.S. non-military space technology.

"Competition from Japan and Western Europe in space technology is a good thing; American enterprise is based on competition. But while other nations see large payoffs in space, the U.S. seems to be backing off from its commitment to stay competitive. It will be quite interesting to see if Reagan's July 4 speech on his space policy reflects the competitive reality the (OTA) report discusses."

Logsdon can be reached at 676-7292.

ISSUE: How the business world can manage more with less

EXPERT: Dr. Gordon Lippitt, professor of behavioral science and author of Organization Renewal, has consulted with 24 organizations in the past three years in helping them through "cutback" crisis.

"As recession has hit, the need to do more with less is a challenge. A negative reaction to unaccustomed curtailment of resources often leads to problem depression, heightened levels of frustration and stress,

(more)

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: JUNE 22, 1982

CONTACT: DIANE H. RUSH
676-6464 (Office)
338-3497 (Home)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GW READING CENTER OFFERS FOUR SUMMER PROGRAMS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — George Washington University's Reading Center, a part of the School of Education and Human Development, offers the following summer programs:

- * Spelling and Composition for Horrendous Spellers (junior and senior high school), Monday through Thursday, June 28, - July 29, 11:15 a.m. - 2 p.m.
- * Memory Techniques for High School Students, Saturday, August 7, 14, 21 and 28, 9:30 a.m. - 12 noon
- * High School Study Skills, Monday through Friday, July 12 - 23, 10:30 a.m. - 2 p.m.
- * Intensive Pre-College Preparatory Program, Monday through Friday, July 6 - 30, 8 a.m. - 3 p.m.

All classes are conducted in room 429, 2201 G St., NW. For more information, call 676-6286.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: JUNE 22, 1982

CONTACT: JANE LINGO
676-6460 (Office)
234-3453 (Evenings)

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENT
FOR BROADCAST THROUGH JULY 29

(25 SECONDS)

Master photographs from Washington Collections, photographs from approximately 1900 to 1960, are on exhibition in George Washington University's Dimock (DIM-uk) Gallery through Friday, July 30.

The gallery, off the lower lounge of Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H Streets, N.W., a short walk from the Foggy Bottom/GWU Metro station, is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

-end-

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

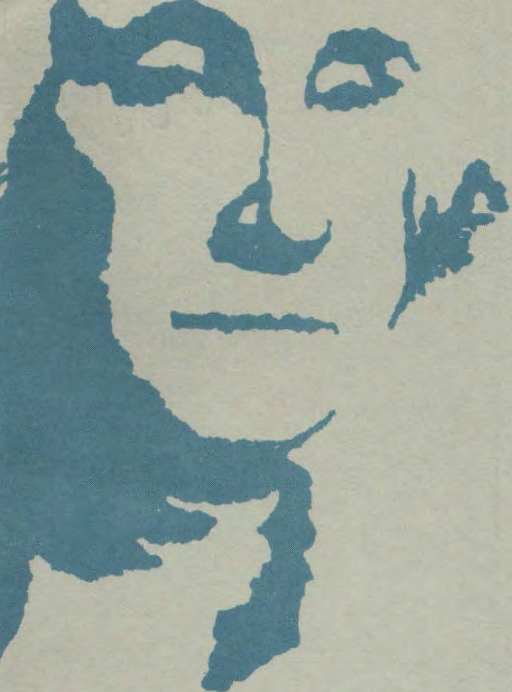

MAILING DATE: JUNE 22, 1982

CONTACT: ROBERT BOVÉ
676-6460 (Office)
265-1316 (Evenings)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

REGISTRATION STARTS AT GW INSTITUTE OF LAW AND AGING

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- George Washington University's Institute of Law and Aging is now registering for the fall session beginning September 7. Courses-- for senior citizens or service providers--focus on such topics as Social Security, Medicare, age discrimination, legal research and writing, and paralegal practice in administrative law. For registration information call 676-4869.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: JUNE 22, 1982

CONTACT: DIANE H. RUSH
676-6464 (Office)
338-3497 (Home)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GW READING CENTER OFFERS FOUR SUMMER PROGRAMS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — George Washington University's Reading Center, a part of the School of Education and Human Development, offers the following summer programs:

- * Spelling and Composition for Horrendous Spellers (junior and senior high school), Monday through Thursday, June 28, - July 29, 11:15 a.m. - 2 p.m.
- * Memory Techniques for High School Students, Saturday, August 7, 14, 21 and 28, 9:30 a.m. - 12 noon
- * High School Study Skills, Monday through Friday, July 12 - 23, 10:30 a.m. - 2 p.m.
- * Intensive Pre-College Preparatory Program, Monday through Friday, July 6 - 30, 8 a.m. - 3 p.m.

All classes are conducted in room 429, 2201 G St., NW. For more information, call 676-6286.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MEMO TO CALENDAR EDITORS

RE: Free Creative Writing Workshop in Poetry at GW

Applications are now being accepted for the free 1982 fall semester creative writing workshop in poetry to be held at George Washington University Thursdays from 8 to 10 p.m. The workshop is cosponsored by GW and the Jenny McKean Moore Fund for Writers and will be led by Lucille Clifton, award-winning author of Two-Headed Woman (University of Massachusetts, Juniper Prize), among other books of poetry; numerous children's books; Generations (Random, 1976), a prose memoir; and co-author of the Emmy-award-winning television script, Free to Be...You and Me (1974).

Applicants need not have academic qualifications and must submit a letter of application by August 16 to Department of English, George Washington University, Washington, D.C. 20052. The application letter must state name, address, telephone number, age and a brief personal history. Enclose five to 10 poems, up to 10 pages total. (The poems will not be returned.) Participants in prior workshops are not eligible. For information call 676-6641.

June 23, 1982

Robert Bové
676-6460 (Office)
265-1316 (Evenings)

News Release
GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: JUNE 25, 1982

CONTACT: ROBERT BOVÉ
(202) 676-6460 (Office)
(202) 265-1316 (Evenings)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GW TELECOMMUNICATIONS INFORMATION CENTER RECEIVES
FIRST MAJOR GIFT

Washington, D.C. -- George Washington University's newly created Telecommunications Information Center recently received its first major donation, in the form of a complete set of Pike and Fischer Radio Regulations at a ceremony in the law offices of former Senator and Secretary of State Edmund Muskie.

The 90-volume set, containing both the first and second series, is the gift of the law firm of Chadbourne, Parke, Whiteside & Wolff, where Senator Muskie is a senior partner. Present to receive the gift were Dr. Christopher H. Sterling, director of GW's Center for Telecommunications Studies, and Ms. Judy Sessions, planning librarian with GW's Melvin Gelman Library.

Pike and Fischer's serials are comprehensive reports on FCC and government decisions concerning radio and television. "This is a cornerstone donation," said Sterling, "which we are certain will be greatly appreciated by researchers who use the information center."

-more-

The 90-volume set will be available for use by scholars, professionals and students in the Telecommunications Information Center, Gelman Library, 2130 H St., N.W.

For information contact Alice Haber at (202) 676-7062.

News Release

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Office of Public Relations/Washington, D.C. 20052/(202) 676-6460

MAILING DATE: JUNE 28, 1982

CONTACT: DIANE H. RUSH
676-6464 (Office)
338-3497 (Evening)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GW READING CENTER OFFERS SUMMER PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- George Washington University's Reading Center, a part of the School of Education and Human Development, is sponsoring a four-week summer program to prepare children six to 10 years of age for school by developing thinking and logical reasoning skills.

The individually based curriculum includes activities designed to be fun while teaching logical reasoning and problem solving.

High-level thinking games and mind teasers to enhance academics are included.

The program is offered at the Capitol Children's Museum, 800 3rd St., N.E. from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., July 12 through August 6. Cost is $375. For information, call Dr. Harry Wachs, 676-6286.